

While legend has it that the merchant Bjarni Herjólfsson had seen the coast of Newfoundland on a previous trip, it would appear that the viking Leif Ericson was the first European to settle for any time in North America. his excursion in 1000 A.D. predates Christopher Columbus by 500 years.

