

Red Cliffs: Prince Edward Island is famous for its red sand stone coast. The soil that helps produce some of the world's best potatoes is so rich in iron, that the sand is actually coloured by rust. If you wander PEI's shores you may well find a lobster trap among the sea shells and jelly fish.

