

In 2016 a huge forest fire destroyed large tracts of land and much of the community of Fort McMurray in Alberta. Many courageous firefighters took part in battling the blaze. Such events highlight the role that the men and women who serve their communities play around the world.

