

Because Canada is so vast and has many hard to reach communities, we have always relied on bush planes to reach these remote places. The one pictured here is a Norseman. Depending on the season and where the pilot had to fly the aircraft might have skis, pontoons or wheels.

