

Victoria Day has become the unofficial kick off to summer in Canada. This holiday lands on the last Monday before May 25 and honours the birthday of Queen Victoria who is considered a key player in confederation. This official holiday is marked with parades, bbqs and fireworks.

