

Dawson City: Dawson City has not been a booming town since the end of the gold rush at the turn of the century. At one time it was Canada's largest western city with 40 000 inhabitants. Now, it's amazing architecture reminds us of what the frontier was like 100 years ago.

