

The Supreme Court of Canada sits just to the west of Parliament Hill on Wellington St. in Ottawa. The two distinctive statues in the front are Veritas (truth) and Ivstitia (justice). Canada's court has nine justices chosen from across the country who decide on a wide range of legal matters.

