

Canadians Frederick Banting and Charles Best have been accredited with the discovery of insulin, the life saving treatment for diabetes. While there were other talented people involved and a lot of controversy these two are world famous for their work, with Banting receiving a Nobel prize.

