

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police is the National police force of Canada. The current RCMP was formed in 1920 but its roots date back to 1868. The RCMP is the only force in some areas and is responsible for enforcing federal law across the country. The motto means "Uphold the Right."

